Vendor Questions:

Solicitation #7548994

Question: Please define what exact automatic transmission is required for this bid. Either a 2000 series Allison or a 3000 series Allison would meet the general definition. If a 6 speed (not 16) speed version is desired, please keep in mind that this is a double overdrive transmission. A 5 speed version of either transmission would be a single overdrive model.

Response: 6speed

Question: Also, please define what the wording "ON-OFF" means in the transmission description

Response: Disregard

Question: The terms "driveline traction control" and "locking differential" are both used. Is this meant to be the same item? If not, please define what is meant with driveline traction control

Response: same item

Question: Axle weight capacities are not shown nor are suspension capacities.

Response: rear axle rated capacity min.18,500LB
Front axle: minimum 7000lb capacity

Question: Under the brake section, hydraulic brakes are called out with ABS

Which is standard, but there is a further mention of 'TRAILER ASSIST'.

Would you please clarify what is meant by 'TRAILER ASSIST'. There Are electric brake packages and trailer cord options available if one of those is what is intended

Response: Hydraulic brakes with ABS... disregard trailer assist
