How Grainger Can Help

Nationwide Logistics Network:

One of Grainger's key strengths is our expansive logistics network. Grainger maintains a large network of local branches—each carrying an average inventory value of approximately one million dollars. Our local branches are supported by a state of the art, integrated distribution network which includes distribution centers and master branches across the U.S. Our systems allow us to know exactly where products are located in the network enabling us to get you the right product, in the right place, at the right time every time.

24/7 After-Hours Emergency Service:

Dial 1-800-CALL-WWG and have a branch opened to procure the products you need anytime (a $50 service fee may be applied). Our branch network is available to respond to emergencies 24-hours a day, seven days a week.

Extended Hours:

Grainger branches operate on extended hours (sometimes 24 hours depending on imposed curfews) to serve customers. In the case of large-scale disasters, our branches remain open for the duration of the event.

Emergency Support Teams/Personnel:

In emergencies, Grainger mobilizes internal and external resources to assist impacted areas. We deploy expert teams to provide aid where needed and bring in additional personnel to take orders, assist customers at the counter and load trucks. Our Call Centers are able to accept phone orders 24 hours a day.

Essential Product Availability:

Within hours of an event, we dispatch trailers containing critical products to support the relief effort. We bring you critical items and reduce the time you need to wait for them. Contingency plans with our suppliers enable us to provide additional equipment quickly.

Unique Relationships with Local, Regional and National Authorities:

FEMA, the Department of Homeland Security, the New York Port Authority and many other local, regional and national entities have indicated that Grainger has been placed on a select list of key First Responders. Grainger trucks were escorted through the Holland Tunnel by the New York Port Authority during the first hours of response to the 9/11 tragedy. During major hurricanes and floods, Grainger helps supply governmental entities with pumps, generators, sandbags, etc., as well as supplying businesses affected by an emergency.

How Grainger is Prepared

For most businesses it's not a matter of if an emergency will occur but when an emergency will impact their operations. We're standing by to help when the time comes.

Grainger has a large network of distribution centers and branches in the U.S. If a disaster hits one of them, we can deliver product from an alternate source within the system.

Grainger has positioned generators throughout the supply chain network for rapid deployment to branches that need power due to a disaster. This helps ensure we will be up and running when our customers need us.

Grainger has developed a Rapid Deployment Kit, enabling a branch that has been affected by a disaster to quickly resume network communications with corporate business systems. In many cases, Grainger is the only company that is functioning with "business as usual" capabilities in an impacted area.

Grainger has a proven data backup and recovery strategy that allows us to assure each customer that the data we have entered regarding their transaction will not be lost just because the area is hit by a disaster. Our Enterprise Systems Continuity Plan provides a tried and tested IT network. We built in redundancy for continued operations during and after events. Easy access to inventory across the network assures uninterrupted service to our customers.

Our Crisis Management Team ensures the safety of Grainger employees and facilities. They test our properties, people and systems to determine readiness prior to events. Post event, this team assesses potential damage to Grainger facilities; conducts inventory assessments within the effected market(s) and assures the operational integrity of our facilities.

Our Product Prioritization plan is designed to serve the health and safety of the public first and foremost. In severe emergencies, we prioritize products for First Responders and Receivers to effectively serve those with most critical need while staging high-volume items aids in appropriate quantities across the system.

Flood Checklist

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, flooding causes more damage in the U.S. each year than any other severe, weather-related event. FEMA states that over the past ten years, the average flood claim amounted to over $33,000.

Floods aren't just natural events. They can also be the results of broken pipes or other malfunctions in water delivery and elimination systems. Implementing measures to protect and reactivate critical operations is key to mitigating your losses and maintaining your business.
